Scheme information

You can rent a sheltered housing flat either from the Council or from a local registered social landlord or housing association.

Sheltered housing schemes consist of self-contained unfurnished flats. Each has a scheme manager and a 24-hour community alarm service

Most schemes will have an on-site laundry (except the Brunswick Centre) and extra security measures to help tenants feel safe. Some schemes accept pets as long as they don't affect other tenants.

What is extra-care sheltered housing?

Extra-care sheltered housing offers accommodation with care staff on site 24 hours a day who can help you remain independent in a home of your own.

Extra care housing can be a good alternative to residential care allowing you to have your own tenancy and your own front door.

What are the benefits of extra care?

- You agree your care and support needs with a social worker and the scheme manager.
- There is a care and support team on site 24 hours a day.
- A dedicated team of well trained care staff can help with personal care, domestic tasks and management of your tenancy and bills.
- You get privacy and security and peace of mind for you and your relatives.
- You can have emergency call alarms in your flat to call assistance if you want them.

Who is extra care for?

People applying for extra care are assessed by a social worker to see if they are eligible, using a care needs assessment. You must:

- be over 65
- live in Camden and have housing support needs
- need care.

If you would like to know more about extra care or are interested in applying contact:

Resource centres for older people

Camden's resource centres offer opportunities to join activities and adult education classes specifically for people who are aged over 60. For example, they host classes in relaxation, art, chair-based exercise, Tai Chi, drama, poetry appreciation, sewing skills, pottery and more. There are also activities such as podiatry, shopping trips and quizzes.

Older people can socialise, have lunch and where necessary receive help with personal care and support needs, ranging from form filling to help in accessing other services.

Some resource centres are UK Online centres and are able to offer one-to-one computer training in computer suites that are equipped with the latest technology. Adaptations are available to help people with special needs, for example, poor sight or hand movement. Centres also work with the local community and outside groups.

Some activities are run for groups with particular needs, such as people who have experienced strokes or are living with dementia. There are also services for particular cultural and language groups, such as Asian, Somali and African-Caribbean older people.
